

(INTRO OF SCOTT HUMSTON 2015)

Scott Humston has led an extraordinary life.

Overcoming a speech related birth defect to become a full time speaker and performer, Scott now devotes his life to the art of educating through entertainment. Scott holds a B.A. in communication studies and dramatic arts, and has been awarded professional and community awards for his encouragement to young people.

Over the last 20 years He has entertained, motivated, and inspired thousands of people each year; including shows for The White House. His shows have been seen live by more than 3 million people. And most recently Scott can be seen on the television show on the BBC in the United Kingdom, called Now You See it.

Scott travels more than 40,000 miles a year. His shows have been seen coast-to-coast and abroad. When not on the road Scott and his family live in Grand Island, Florida. He's been married 20 years and has four home-schooled children.

Please welcome, Scott Humston!
